Message from the Director and CEO

I am pleased to present the Nova Scotia Human Rights Commission’s French-language Services Plan for fiscal 2025-26 outlining our objectives for the coming year. As always, the Commission will strive to make service and information available in French-language, both proactively and in response to requests from members of the public.

The culture and heritage of the Acadian and francophone communities of Nova Scotia continue to enrich the social fabric connecting our past to our present, reminding us of the impacts of colonialism, deportation and the historic relationships that shaped our province.

Joseph Fraser
Director and CEO

What we’re doing to contribute to the growth of the Acadian and francophone community

We recognize the importance of French-language services, and we endeavour to fulfil our responsibilities under the French-language Services Act and regulations. We believe Nova Scotians should have access to quality government services in French, and this plan demonstrates our commitment to ensuring our programs, policies and services address the priorities expressed by the Acadian and francophone community. To achieve this aim, we collaborate with other designated public institutions across government – including the Office of Acadian Affairs and Francophonie – through the French-language Services Coordinating Committee. We greatly value this partnership, which ensures a continued understanding of the unique needs of our province’s Acadian and francophone community.

We encourage Nova Scotians to request services from government in French. We also encourage Acadians and francophones to have their voices heard by participating on agencies, boards, and commissions, which are regularly advertised by the Executive Council Office. As we continue to maintain and improve our French-language services, we welcome feedback on our progress, and we invite you to share with us your comments or questions by contacting our French-language services coordinator. If you wish to make a formal complaint regarding French-language services, please contact the Office of the Ombudsman.

Services we offer in French

- Intake Form
- Nova Scotia Human Rights Act
- Nova Scotia Human Rights Information Brochure
- Intake and dispute resolution services when requested.

How we communicate with the public in French

- When service is requested in French, staff are asked to identify a French speaking colleague and facilitate either verbal or written communication.
- Call for nominations for the annual Nova Scotia Human Rights Awards issued in both French and English.

How we plan to maintain or improve our French-language services in 2025–26

- Strengthen internal operational structures including policy, legislative and administrative frameworks

Ongoing delivery of French information and translations to staff in order for them to learn more about the French language as well as the Acadian Culture, including a review of current French-language resources and address identified inefficiencies.

- Develop and deliver quality French-language services and programs to the public

Continue to enhance the Commission's French-language landing page to increase service delivery options for Acadian and francophone communities.

- Maintain ongoing dialogue and consultation with the Acadian and francophone community

Promotion of the availability of French-language training to staff of the Commission while amplifying Acadian and francophone communities through promotion of public events.
