Message from the Director and CEO

I am pleased to present the Nova Scotia Human Rights Commission’s French-language Services Plan for fiscal 2026-27 outlining our objectives for the coming year. As always, the Commission will strive to make service and information available in French-language, both proactively and in response to requests from members of the public.

The culture and heritage of the Acadian and francophone communities of Nova Scotia continue to enrich the social fabric connecting our past to our present, reminding us of the impacts of colonialism, deportation and the historic relationships that shaped our province.

Joseph Fraser
Director and CEO

What we’re doing to contribute to the growth of the Acadian and francophone community

We recognize the importance of French-language services, and we endeavour to fulfil our responsibilities under the French-language Services Act and regulations. We believe Nova Scotians should have access to quality government services in French, and this plan demonstrates our commitment to ensuring our programs, policies and services address the priorities expressed by the Acadian and francophone community. To achieve this aim, we collaborate with other designated public institutions across government – including the Office of Acadian Affairs and Francophonie – through the French-language Services Coordinating Committee. We greatly value this partnership, which ensures a continued understanding of the unique needs of our province’s Acadian and francophone community.

We encourage Nova Scotians to request services from government in French. We also encourage Acadians and francophones to have their voices heard by participating on agencies, boards, and commissions, which are regularly advertised by the Executive Council Office. As we continue to maintain and improve our French-language services, we welcome feedback on our progress, and we invite you to share with us your comments or questions by contacting our French-language services coordinator. If you wish to make a formal complaint regarding French-language services, please contact the Office of the Ombudsman.

Services we offer in French

- Intake Form

- Nova Scotia Human Rights Act
- Nova Scotia Human Rights Information Brochure
- Intake and dispute resolution services when requested.

How we communicate with the public in French

- When service is requested in French, staff are asked to identify a French speaking colleague and facilitate either verbal or written communication.
- Call for nominations for the annual Nova Scotia Human Rights Awards issued in both French and English.

How we plan to maintain or improve our French-language services in 2026–27

- Strengthen internal French-language supports

Continual provision of French-language information and translations to staff to support their learning of the French language and Acadian culture. This includes addressing any identified inefficiencies of existing French-language resources.

- Provide quality French services and programs

Further develop the Commission's French-language capacity to expand service delivery options for Acadian and francophone communities.

- Ensure continued engagement and consultation with the Acadian and francophone community

Facilitating access to French-language training for Commission staff, while enhancing the visibility of Acadian and francophone communities through the promotion of public events.
